Description

Some places feel cultivated. Others feel discovered. Rancho El Guamuchil feels as though a small corner of the Garden of Eden quietly took root in Baja.

Set across 16,887 square meters of fertile land, this remarkable property was once a thriving organic farm and still carries the richness of that history. Mature fruit trees, abundant vegetation, and years of careful stewardship have created a landscape that feels lush, productive, and deeply peaceful.

The property reveals itself gradually as you walk it--shaded paths, rustic structures, and quiet corners that make it clear something special has been growing here for years.
